Daiichi Life Group Unveils New Trade Names and Corporate Logos for Its Group Companies in Japan

Dai-ichi Life Holdings, Inc. (the “Company”; President and Group CEO: Tetsuya Kikuta) will change its trade name to “Daiichi Life Group, Inc.” and the group brand name will also be changed to “Daiichi Life” on April 1, 2026. Accordingly, the Company hereby announces that it has decided to change the trade names and corporate logos of its group companies in Japan.

The company aims to achieve significant growth as a “global top-tier insurance group” by evolving into an “insurance-related service provider” and transforming into a company that opens up the possibilities of “Life.”

“Life” of the group brand name “Daiichi Life” refers not only to “Life” in the narrow sense of life insurance and life, but also “Life” in the broader sense of people's lives and daily lives. The group is committed to contributing to the lives of people around the world by becoming a company that goes beyond the framework of life insurance. By unifying the trade names and corporate logos of each group company, the Company aims to enhance our global recognition, competitiveness, and improve our brand value.

The Company also plans to gradually change the trade names and corporate logos of its overseas group companies in the future.

1. Schedule date of Change

April 1, 2026

2. Trade Names and Corporate Logos of each group company

The trade name changes are subject to the approval of proposals for partial amendments to the Articles of Incorporation at the general shareholders' meetings of each group company, as well as approval from the relevant authorities. The trade name changes for companies marked with an asterisk (*) were previously announced in the News Release dated February 14, 2025.
